OTP through GMAIL, does gmail have to be an approved technology?
GMAIL must be specified as the provider for sending the notification

How can we make an integration test for OTP, which has random ouput?
End-to-end test, if its automated the OTP context has to be grabbed externally.
You create OTP somewhere in database, another process grabs it, then injects it into another part of the application

Project plan required for approval?
Technically no but we would probably want his feedback
